Are Now Living In Poland

(Note: There are three million Jews in Europe who would flee into exile if they could, but the noose of oppression is tightening about them. H. R. By H. R. Knickerbocker
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, June 22.—(INS)—The noose is tightening around the neck of a people. Despite the efforts of American, British and French Jewry, despite the Evian Conference, and the sympathy of humane men of all creeds and races throughout the world, Pharaoh is winning. The Jew wanders. "I fear," said Lord Hailey, chairman of the co-ordinating committee for refugees, "that the ring is closing against the refugees. The problem is a nightmare."

"No one who lives with the problem as I do," said Lord Winterton, His Majesty's chief representative on the inter-governmental committee of the Evian Conference, "can exaggerate the tragedy of suffering which it causes in mind and body. It is on a scale of human woe which is medieval in its poignancy and scope and almost like the black death or some other scourge of the past."

Eight months ago the Gestapo jammed 5,999 Jews of Polish origin in a special train and, surprising the Polish authorities, ran it over the frontier into the village of Zbounzyn. Among the Zbounzyn refugees were the father and mother of the youthful Herschel Grynszpan who, an exile in

To Probe "Love Laboratory"

Wilmington, N. J., June 22.—Huntingdon County Prosecutor Lloyd C. Fisher today threatened to ask a Grand Jury investigation of an alleged "love laboratory" in the basement of Flemington High School, where a 28-year-old male teacher assertedly lured some 21 pretty girl students for petting parties.

Declaring he has statements from "12 or 15 girls," Fisher said he would give the case to the September Grand Jury unless the Board of Education launches a thorough probe. He named Robert Folker, sentenced a week ago to the Rahway State Reformatory on assault charges growing out of the case, as the radio and photography instructor who conducted the "laboratory" in a basement dark room. Folker enticed the girls to the room, locked the door, tried to hug and kiss them and to get them to pose in the nude, Fisher said.

The instructor, a member of the faculty for five years, resigned shortly before receiving an intermediate sentence on assault charges. Fisher, assistant defense counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, asserted the "laboratory" was conducted for at least a year until it was brought to light June 10 by one of the girl students.

Principal Edwin VanKeuren denied knowing of Folker's reputed activity and Mrs. Agnes Shields, president of the school board, has said the Board planned no additional investigation. Fisher declared. He asserted he wanted to know "how a situation like this could exist over so long a period."

STATE TO TRY TO REDUCE
BICYCLE ACCIDENTS

Determined Effort Is To Be Made, Says Secretary of Revenue

ALARMING INCREASE, '38

Bristol like every other community is confronted with a bicycle menace due to the reckless manner in which bicyclists disregard the traffic rules. Warnings have been issued by the police from time to time but still there are bicycles ridden on the sidewalks, bicycles ridden at night without lights and on heavily traveled highways.

The Department of Revenue's Division of Safety under Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr., announces that there is to be a determined effort to reduce the number of traffic accidents to persons on bicycles throughout the state.

"Last year," Hamilton said, "there was an alarming increase in the number of accidents due to collisions between bicycles and vehicles upon the highway. In a report just handed to me this increase is shown as 21.7 per cent during the year and it accounts for nearly two per cent of all persons killed in traffic accidents."

According to the report submitted to Hamilton there were 1328 bicycle accidents resulting in the death of 36 persons and injuries to 1402.

The survey shows that 30 of the persons killed or 86.1 per cent were between the ages of five and twenty-four and 83.5 per cent of those injured also were within this age group. The summer months of June, July, August and September contributed the major portion of this problem, and 51.6 per cent of all bicycle collisions occurred during this period as well as 47.2 per cent of the bicycle fatalities.

The leading month for these accidents was August, while those occurring in September had the highest death rate.

A Coincidence

(By "The Stroller")
It might have been a coincidence but it is a fact that at just about the time that the Wilson Distilling Company opened their blending and bottling plant here the Borough had erected a 500,000 gallon water tank in the same vicinity.

Now we do not intend to imply that Wilson whiskey needed more water but merely mention the fact in passing.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Approximately sixty persons attended the annual children's party of the Middletown Grange held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Heston, near Newtown.

Prior to the presentation of the program, in which the children took the leading parts, a cafeteria supper was served on the lawn at the Heston home.

After the supper the children were costumed to represent various characters in the movies, literature and history. The children also gave a number of recitations and sang a number of appropriate selections.

The next meeting of the grange will be held at "Hillcrest Farm," the home of Mrs. H. Ellis Tomlinson, near Holland, where a hobby show will be one of the main features.

The 50th annual banquet of the Newtown High School Alumni Association was held Saturday evening, June 17, at the Langhorne Country Club.

Covers were laid for 180 members and guests. During the dinner it was announced the following have served as principals of the Newtown school: Charles Boyer, E. J. Walter, J. M. Hartman, J. Kirk Leatherman, County Superintendent J. H. Hoffman, A. L. Eby, H. Scott, McHenry, C. Willard Schuster, J. William Barbour and A. Kurtz King. Five of them were present, E. J. Walters, J. Kirk Leatherman, County Superintendent J. H. Hoffman, J. William Barbour and A. Kurtz King. These, with the class of 1889, were special guests.

Five of the six persons graduated in 1889 are living. They are Anna Vandersdalen Eagle, Robert McMaisters Douglas, Clara Gorton Masten, Anna Moore Rook and Miss Cora Willard.

Frank Fabian, the president, introduced Frances Sutton as toastmaster and he in turn called on the past principals and representatives of the different classes.

Miss Willard spoke for the class of 1889. Mrs. Marie Yerkes Marne, Evanston, Illinois, and Mrs. Doris Johnston Myskense, of India, were also present.

Election of officers resulted as follows: president, Jack Ogleby; vice-president, Donald DeCoursey; secretary, Doris Flagg and treasurer, Mrs. Katherine McGary.

After the banquet dancing was enjoyed.

Walter B. Wiley, who answered the question, "Are the motor trucks paying their share of the highway costs?" at a meeting of the Buckingham Farmers' Club held on Saturday evening, explained that the owners of the trucks think they are paying their share, but that the highway authorities do not. "You are paying a toll for every mile you use a truck on the highway," said Mr. Wiley. "He explained that trucks except those carrying milk and other real necessities should be kept off the highways on Sundays."

HONOR BUCKS STUDENTS AT STATE COLLEGE

Six Are Awarded Third and Sixth Places in The Competition

CONSIDER RECORD GOOD

Six agricultural students representing the agricultural departments of the Quakertown and the Springfield township high schools participated in State contests at State College, last week, and received third and sixth place. This showing is considered very fine when it is considered that vocational agriculture as a course has only been offered two years in high schools in Bucks County.

Walter Landis, Quakertown, placed third in judging Jerseys and received a bronze medal. Joseph Fresh, Pleasant Valley, placed sixth in the dairy judging contest, competing with 368 other boys selected as the most capable judges from 255 high schools in Pennsylvania, where vocational agriculture is offered. Over 1000 boys from Pennsylvania competed in the state contests and they were a selected group representing 14,000 pupils studying vocational agriculture.

Frank Esner, Quakertown High School, was a member of the Future Farmers of America band of over 100 pieces. The members of this band come from all parts of Pennsylvania and are all farm boys studying agriculture in high school. They meet only twice during the year, during the State judging contests and at the State Farm Show. Under the leadership of Henry Brunner, head of the department of rural education at State College, they are always a big attraction and provide good music.

King and Queen Greet
Princesses

Southampton, England, June 22.—Delighted cries of "Hello, Pop" and "Hello, Mommy," rang across the decks of the liner "Empress of Britain" today, as Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose were at last reunited with their parents, the King and Queen of England.

In sharp contrast to the dignified protocol-dictated greeting which King George and Queen Elizabeth received throughout their 1600-mile tour of the United States and Canada, the little princesses welcomed their mother and father with the same enthusiasm and informality as any other children throughout the whole wide world would greet their own parents.

Princess Elizabeth, heir apparent to the throne, strove to maintain the dignified demeanor to which she has been trained, but her younger sister was entirely uninhibited. As she scrambled aboard the Empress as the liner headed into Southampton, she ran straight to her father, threw her arms about him and kissed him thrice—audibly—as he bent down to her.

Princess Margaret, only nine, was first aboard the Empress from the destroyer Kempenfelt, which steamed out from Portsmouth to meet the incoming liner off the Isle of Wight.

At the top of her lungs, she shouted welcome to her mother and father, and ran straight to the King to bestow upon him a childish accolade far more pleasing to him than any of the thunderous receptions and dignified greetings heaped upon him and his Queen in the new world.

Japan Renews Operations

Tokyo, June 22.—Renewal of Japan's military operations in south China was announced late today by Foreign Minister Arita, along with assurance to all foreign governments, presumably including Britain, that the rights of third powers will be respected.

The announcement of resumption of warfare against China, boldly asserted that the campaign is aimed at the destruction of "important bases" used by General Chiang Kai-shek.

Formal notes handed all foreign diplomatic representatives in Tokyo, however, stated that the "policies pursued by the Japanese government to respect the rights of third powers remained unchanged," and that every effort will be made to protect foreign holdings from damage.

America Stands Firm

Hongkong, June 22.—An ultimatum calling for removal of the United States destroyer Pillsbury from the war-torn Swatow area, today met with scornful rejection by Admiral Harry Yarnall, hard-headed commander of the American Asiatic Fleet.

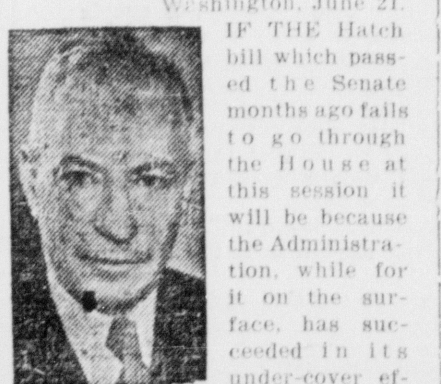

His rebuff, which the Admiral did not even express until after Japan's deadline of one p. m., eastern daylight time had passed, was coupled with the sharp warning that the United States would hold Japan responsible for any damage to American lives or property. Not only would America refuse to deprive the 40 American citizens in Swatow of the protection of the Pillsbury's guns, but it was reported that the United States destroyer Asheville would go to the South China port tomorrow.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

The Hatch Bill

or emasculate it. If either happens the people of the country ought to thoroughly understand.

THE Hatch bill is designed primarily to take politics out of life, but it goes further—it is directed also at the horde of Federal jobholders—postmasters, United States marshals, collectors of internal revenue, etc.—who are active in behalf of the appointing power in every primary and election campaign. As drawn, the bill, besides imposing severe penalties upon any employe, agent or officer of the WPA who engages in political activity, prohibits the solicitation, contribution by or collection from Federal employes of money for political purposes.

IT IS A straightforward, clean-cut effort to end the unsavory scandal of a relief organization used for political purposes, but it also would put a stop to the indefensible practice by which the Federal machine is used to keep itself in power. There is no argument against the Hatch bill, no excuse for failure to pass it. Last session it was killed in the Senate on the plea of Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Administration leader, and it was a singularly discreditable performance.

IT was well recognized at the time that the WPA in Kentucky was

LEGION MEDALS HERE

Exercises Held in St.
Mark's Hall

CERTIFICATES GIVEN

Recipients of Awards Selected
From Schools in This Community

Nine boys and eight girls of the public and parochial schools in Bensalem Township, Bristol Township, Bristol Borough and Tullytown Borough, last night were the recipients of American Legion medals and certificates. They were presented at exercises held in St. Mark's hall under the auspices of the Americanization committee of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382.

The medals and certificates were given to the boys for honor, courage, leadership, scholarship, service and Americanism, while the girls received their awards for honor, courage, companionship, scholarship, service and Americanism. There was one more boy than girl to receive the award because St. Francis Industrial School, Edgington, has only boys enrolled.

Those to receive the medals and certificates were:

Beatrice Coplin and Elmer Geiges, Bensalem Township public schools; Doris Gonzales and Charles E. Smith, Bristol Township public schools; Christine Johnson and William Hubbs, Tullytown public schools. Miss Johnson was unable to be present so the medal was received by her friend, Lillian Hirst.

Leonora Melideo and John Missanelli, St. Ann's Parochial School; Margaret Carroll and John Sackville, 2nd, St. Mark's Parochial School; Juliana C. McKee and George R. Langan, St. Charles Parochial School; Charles Helmstret, St. Francis Industrial School.

Betty Louder and George Molden, Jr., Bristol public schools; Helen Rita Thompson and Edward J. Mackee, St. Thomas Aquinas Parochial School.

The hall was attractively decorated with the national colors and the Bristol Cadets were seated upon the stage. There was invocation by the Rev. Arthur Gibson, chaplain of the Bracken Post, followed by a brief address of welcome by Charles Rathke, commander.

In a few well-chosen words, Commander Rathke extended greetings to those assembled and thanked those in attendance for being present at "this the initial effort of this character."

John Leslie Kilcoyne, Esq., chairman of the Americanization committee, presided and introduced Max Slepian, vice-chairman of the Americanization committee of the American Legion of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Slepian delivered a patriotic address in which he defined "Who is the Real American?"

The history of the American flag illustrated with miniature flags was given by Jacob C. Schmidt, Jr., and Joseph Schirber.

Mr. Kilcoyne in his address of presentation of the medals and certificates described those characteristics for which the awards were made and complimented the girls and boys upon having been judged fit to receive such an award.

The past commanders and Legionnaires of Bracken Post gave the boys their medals, while the president and past officers of the Bracken Post Auxiliary gave the medals to the girls.

Mrs. David Shanley, District Americanization Officer, was introduced by Mrs. Benjamin Lessig and then Mrs. Shanley gave a certificate to each girl winner of an award. Ray Hammerley, District Commander, was introduced by Commander Rathke, and he gave certificates to the boys.

The Rev. Albert Glass, assistant rector of St. Mark's Church, gave the benediction.

The award winners were then taken to the Legion home where refreshments were served.

LOST LEADER

Max Beerbohm, satiric caricaturist and essayist, who, with Oscar Wilde, Aubrey Beardsley and other astonishing figures of the Yellow Book era, brought the last century to a brilliant if superficial end, has fallen.

Forty years ago Beerbohm wrote a most scathing denunciation of knighthood as a cheap commodity. Now he has accepted a title from King George VI and henceforth will be known as Sir Max.

Beerbohm was one of the most unruly boys ever to gain prominence in literary circles, but his mischief always had point—too much point for some of the victims of his shafts. Both in prose and with pencil he drew portraits of his contemporaries that shrewdly emphasized outstanding weaknesses of physique or character. What would the Max of those days say of Sir Max today? Here is an excerpt from that essay of four decades ago:

"Knighthood is a cheap commodity in these days. Though all sneer at it, there are few whose hands would not gladly grasp the dingy patent. It is quite possible that in the next century forms of application of knighthood will be sent out annually to every household and be thrown with other circulars into the wastepaper basket. Further still in the future, knighthood may be one of the lighter punishments of the law; 'forty shillings or a knighthood' sounds quite possible."

There is an unavoidable feeling that one more rebel has capitulated in his later years. At the age of 66, Sir Max has changed and the world has changed. The scintillating quality of humor has degenerated in the face of national and international crises, and the need for quick belly laughs has produced gags and obvious innuendo.

Sir Max has written nothing, drawn nothing, for publication in a decade, though he is said to be at work on a mysterious look-alike autobiographical character. It would be a good thing if he could recreate some of the glitter and snivory of the native decade.

THE PIANO RECOVERS

The swan song of the piano in the home was sung too soon. The piano is making a comeback that should bring apologies from observers who, with increasing pessimism during depression years, have told how reproduced music has so lowered esteem for the piano that families have abandoned them upon moving. First the phonograph and then the radio were said to have done this music maker of the home to death.

Piano shipments in May were nearly 80 per cent more than during the month last year and shipments for the first five months of 1937, normally dull in the industry, were 90 per cent more than in the first half of 1938, with a strong backlog of orders.

Motor car and radio manufacturers introduce progressive new models to stimulate buying and the piano makers may have learned something from that system, but it must be true also that the age-old love for the instrument of Chopin, Liszt, Rubinstein, Rachmaninoff and Paderewski is reawakening.

The discovery of a new variant in hash merely complicates matters, as running it down to the original source may take years.

being used in behalf of Senator Barkley in his fight for renomination and that fact was amply proved after the primaries by the Senate Investigating Committee. After the election the people who were so opposed to the Hatch bill in the Senate found their opposition much diluted, and early in this session it went through that body without a single dissenting vote. No argument was made against it and the assumption was that its passage through the House would be prompt.

THOSE who thought that, however, were mistaken. The bill has now been held up in the House Judiciary Committee for three solid months and the open charge is made that its progress has been blocked by Administration leaders. In an editorial the other day, the Scripps-Howard newspapers asserted that one well-known White House strategist had been urging Democratic Congressmen to "cut the heart out of the bill." It at the same time asserted that Representative Sam Rayburn, of Texas, the official House leader, was doing everything he could to scuttle it. Acting chairman of the Judiciary Committee, Mr. Celler, says he is personally for the bill but that a good many of his colleagues think it "goes too far" and are anxious to amend it in certain respects.

MR. CELLER thinks the whole thing should be "discussed" and opportunity given those who believe some of the bill's provisions should be "relaxed." Friends of the measure, who feel that it will not only halt abuses but elevate the whole standard of public service, say that this merely means that the bill will be so weakened by amendments that as finally enacted it will amount to nothing beyond a platitudinous pronouncement against corruption. It will be, if those who think it "goes too far" have their way, a law without teeth, which will leave things exactly as they are, which is exactly what the Administration politicians want.

THERE IS no question that a political effort directed by Administration leaders is being made to sidetrack the bill. There is slight question that but for the publicity already given this Administration hostility to a bill the merits of which are not open to dispute, it would not get out of the Judiciary Committee at all. If it does come out and is passed without emasculating amendments, it will be because of insistent prodding which has come from anti-Administration Democrats. No recognized Administration man has arisen to give the bill anything beyond lip service.

THE only possible explanation of the attitude of the Administration politicians on this proposal is that they think it will weaken them politically in the primaries and general election of 1940. Clearly there is a political dependence upon the Federal jobholders and the WPA which they do not want to give up if they can avoid it. They have been a conceded political asset in the past and this is, they feel, no time to throw away a political asset. If there is any other explanation it has not been advanced. Under the circumstances, the indefensible holding of this bill would seem something about which people generally might show resentment. If the Republicans are moved by no higher motive than their own political interests, this situation would seem one to turn their guns loose on. What's the matter with them, anyhow?

RECIPES: Those Which Interest Women

Some Economy Tips For Beginning Homemaker

Knowledge of Meat Cuts is An Aid in Thrifty Buying of Food

The June bride of this year is apt to be a sensible young person. Beneath her gay spirit there is a serious streak. She has a definite ambition to be a real help to her husband, and in the majority of cases today that means that she intends to run her home on a business basis, carefully budgeting her expenditures.

One item which will repay careful study is the food question. There is no economy in serving anything less than a well balanced, nutritious, entirely satisfying series of daily meals. Fortunately, says Inez S. Willson, home economist, this ideal can be reached at a minimum of expense if the homemaker knows how to buy thriftily and to prepare food appetizingly and without waste.

Meat is one of the most important considerations because it is rich in food essentials—especially high quality protein, calories and minerals—and a liberal supply is needed for the health and the energy and endurance modern life demands. There is considerable range in meat prices, and it is a real "break" for the homemaker on a budget that the economy cuts are just as high in food value as any others.

Wide Variety of Economical Cuts

There is a wide variety of economy cuts, so that there need be no monotony when it comes to choosing them.

Among the beef cuts are short ribs, flank steak and plate, as well as the larger cuts from the rump and chuck which are cooked as pot-roasts.

Economy lamb cuts, for stews or casserole dishes, are neck slices and lamb shanks. Economy roasts are cut from the shoulder and breast. Shoulder roast of lamb is just as tender and juicy and can be roasted, uncovered, like a leg of lamb. The bones, which make carving difficult, may be removed and the roast rolled, or used with dressing as a "cushion" style roast.

Pork roasts from the shoulder end of the loin are lower in price than the center loin cuts but are fine in quality. Spareribs and pork steaks are other economy cuts. Various cuts of smoked pork, such as the cottage roll and the ham butt slices, are worth considering.

Veal presents opportunities for thrifty meals. Veal breast, which may be stuffed, veal steaks and chops, which are braised, and the veal from shank, aer or shoulder cut in cubes for stewing or braising, as well as ground veal for meat loaf or patties, are all economical and rich in flavor.

Ground meat, beef, veal and lamb and the various kinds of pork sausages, also offer a chance to add variety to meals and economize at the same time. Ground beef and lamb may be broiled like the most tender steaks or chops. Combinations of ground meats make excellent meat loaves.

Braised Meat Dishes

One of the popular ways of cooking the economy cuts is by braising.

Pot-roasts, Swiss steaks, beef and veal "birds" are examples of this way of cooking. The method is to dredge the meat first in flour if you wish and brown in hot lard. Then it is placed in a dish with a tight cover. A very small amount of liquid is added, and the meat is cooked at a simmering temperature, either on top of the range or in the oven, until it is tender. The length of time depends upon the size and shape of the cut as well as the kind of meat. But remember that this is a slow process of cooking. Keep the temperature low if you would have your meat tender and delicious.

COLOR ADDS TO TASTE APPEAL

This is a year of colorful accessories in dress. A bit of costume jewelry, an interesting necklace or clip, a dainty flower, can do wonders in giving style to the simplest dress or suit.

In the same way a touch of style can be given to the meals we serve by dressing up the main dish with a colorful bit of garnish. It need not be elaborate. In fact, some of the simplest combinations of meat and vegetables or fruit are the most effective. It is an interesting field for experimenting and it adds much to the pleasure of cooking, as well as of eating.

Here are garnishes for meat dishes, suggested by Inez S. Willson, home economist. Try them and see how attractive they are:

Roasted Roast of Beef: Peach halves, filled with cinnamon candies, placed around the roast and heated in the pan for a few minutes.

Standing Rib Roast of Beef: Parsley potatoes and green beans in alternate piles.

Broiled Steak: After broiling the steak on one side, place it on a plank. Place a border of mashed potatoes and tomato slices around the steak and return to the oven to finish broiling.

Pork Loin Roast: Have rib ends Frenched. Decorate with paper frills. Place orange halves, with cherry in center of each, around the roast.

Cushion Style Pork Shoulder Roast: Ten or fifteen minutes before roast is done, remove from the oven and with a sharp knife cut surface in diagonal lines to form diamonds. Rub with brown sugar and mustard and place whole cloves in the diamonds. Return to the oven to broil.

Veal Roast: Place pear halves with centers filled with cream cheese around the veal roast during last 15 Bath Addition.

PLANNING LOW-COST, HEALTHFUL MEALS

By Katharine Fisher

Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

It is a well-known fact that the smaller the budget the narrower the choice in foods. And a narrow diet can so often be a deficient diet, one that invites less fitness. So, if the size of your grocery bill is important to you, it is even more important that you know just what can be safely left out of economical meals.

KATHARINE FISHER
Director of
Good Housekeeping
Institute

Our Daily Guide to Low-Cost Meals has saved the day for thousands of budgeteers. We are giving it below because it will help you who are tackling budget meals to come through with flying colors. Take a long look at this guide, and you'll quickly see why it has become so popular.

It's all too easy to be thrifty at the expense of your family when it comes to fruits, leafy, green and yellow vegetables, milk, and so forth. However, with our guide at your elbow when meal-planning hour comes around, you can tell at a glance just what fruits, vegetables and other foods, as well as how much of each, you must include in your daily meals to keep your family well and fit, and still respect your modest budget.

Because we try to stretch food dollars as far as safe, our guide calls for generous quantities of cereals and breads, a full quota of milk, and less expensive but mineral- and vitamin-rich vegetables, fruits, etc. However, more vegetables, fruits, meat, fish and eggs may always be added if your pocketbook allows. More expensive vegetables, fruits and meats may also be substituted for those suggested.

What to Serve Each Day for Grownups and Children Over 5 Years

Milk: 1 qt. for each child; 1 pt. for each adult daily—to drink or in cooked food. Evaporated or dried whole milk or cheese may replace part of the quota.

Vegetables and Fruit: A leafy, green or yellow-colored vegetable once a day, sometimes twice. Tomatoes, canned or fresh, or citrus fruit in season, daily if possible. Potatoes, sweet or white, frequently. One additional fresh or dried fruit or an additional vegetable daily. Dried beans, peas, lentils, peanut butter or nuts two or three times weekly.

A Cereal Dish: Once a day, sometimes twice. This may include breakfast cereals, rice, macaroni, spaghetti, etc., as well as flour and meal products.

Bread or Crackers: At every meal—at least half of them whole grain.

Eggs: Two or three weekly for adults; four or five for young children. A few extra in cooking.

Meat, Fish, Poultry, or Cheese: Three to four times a week or oftener if combined with cereals listed above.

Desserts: Once a day; fruits and milk puddings especially recommended.

Fats: Butter or margarine and salad oil, vegetable shortenings, lard, salt pork and bacon, as budget permits. Margarine reinforced with Vitamins A and D are now available.

Sugars: Molasses, sugar, jellies, honey, and syrups may be used for sweetening.

Plenty of Drinking Water.
Note: To insure against Vitamin D deficiency, cod-liver oil or its equivalents in fish-oil concentrates or Vitamin D milk will be found helpful and beneficial.

minutes of roasting.

Roast Lamb: Have leg of lamb Frenched. Place paper frill on end of bone before serving. Alternate piles of parsley potato balls and whole carrots, about the roast.

Cushion Style Shoulder of Lamb: Place pineapple slices, with cooked prune in center of each, about the roast. Brown in the oven for a few minutes.

Planked Lamb Steaks: Broil lamb steaks until brown on one side, then transfer to plank or heat-proof platter. Place cooked cauliflowerets around the steaks and piles of green beans at both ends of platter. Return to the broiler to complete cooking the meat and to brown the vegetables.

HOT SANDWICHES FOR QUICK LUNCH

Here's a quick and easy kind of hot sandwiches which will "hit the spot" after a game of golf or hours at the beach or any other vacation diversion. It is a satisfying lunch or supper dish on any day, says Inez S. Willson, home economist. If your emergency shelf of ready-to-serve foods is as well supplied as it should be, you'll be able to serve this "quick snack" on any occasion.

Toasted Sausage Sandwiches

Ready-to-serve sausages
6 slices buttered bread
6 slices tomato
6 slices American cheese.

Place a slice of tomato on each piece of buttered bread. On top place a thin slice of American cheese. Cover with ready-to-serve sausage slices. Pork sausage links which have been partially cooked may be used instead. Place under broiler or in a hot oven until the sausages are well browned, the cheese melted and the bread toasted.

State To Try To Reduce Bicycle Accidents

Saturday was the most dangerous day of the week and accounted for 16.8 per cent of all bicycle accidents and 25.7 per cent of the resulting deaths. On the other hand, Sunday ranked lowest with 11.4 per cent of the accidents and 8.6 per cent of the fatalities.

"Regarding the time of these collisions, it is evident," the report reads, "that deaths and injuries were most frequent in the afternoons and evenings."

"From two o'clock in the afternoon until nine o'clock in the evening 64.1 per cent of all accidents involving bicycles took place."

"During this same period of time 77.1 per cent of the deaths and 62.9 per cent of the injuries occurred. The hour from four to five in the afternoon was the most dangerous of the entire day."

"Concerning the location of these accidents, it is apparent that the highways in the rural areas contributed the greatest number of deaths while accidents and injuries were most frequent within the city limits."

"The statistics for 1938 show that 57.1 per cent of the bicycle fatalities occurred in the rural sections, while 78.5 per cent of the accidents and 79.7 per cent of the injuries took place on city streets."

"Within the city, street intersections were the most dangerous location and contributed 25.7 per cent of the deaths and 48.7 per cent of the non-fatal injuries. Bicycle accidents between street intersections accounted for 17.1 per cent of the deaths and 31.2 per cent of the injuries."

"It is interesting to note that passenger cars were involved in 87.9 per cent of the bicycle accidents, while trucks were involved in 11.2 per cent of these collisions."

"Summarizing the foregoing analysis we find:

"Summer months are dangerous months for the bicyclist."

"Afternoons and evenings are the most frequent hours for bicycle collisions."

"Bicycle accidents reach their peak on Saturdays."

"Bicycle accidents are most frequent at city street intersections, while Death rides on the open highway."

"The group from five to twenty-four years of age pays the highest price for reckless riding."

"If the motorist and bicyclist will bear in mind the foregoing facts, and will use caution, courtesy, and cooperation on the streets and highways, then we can look for a reduction in needless deaths and injuries."

35 Boy Scouts To Leave For Fair On June 30th

at Bowman's Hill at the time of the Council Camporee on June 9th. The troop will leave for the Fair with its four leaders, Scoutmaster Walter V. Rutherford, Doylestown; and Assistant Scoutmasters William G. Lange, Jr., Andalusia; Robert T. Hays, Churchville, and Harry A. Behm, Edgington, by bus at eight o'clock from the county Court House on Friday, June 30th. The site on which they will camp was developed by National Headquarters of the Boy Scouts of America and the World's Fair authorities to accommodate four troops and leaders at a time and will be conducted for the duration of the Fair. The scouts will render service in the spirit of scouting and serve as messenger boys, escorts for special visitors and orderlies for a few hours each day.

Arthur M. Eastburn, president of the Bucks County Council Boy Scouts of America, has announced that George F. Tyler, of Newtown, has again agreed to serve as general chairman for the raising of funds for the promotion and extension of scouting throughout Bucks county in the campaign which will start in September.

Mr. Tyler was chairman last year when $13,578.61 was raised, the largest amount in a great many years.

Three Million Jews Would Flee Into Exile If They Could

Paris, became befogged with anguish over the fate of his parents and shot the diplomat Von Rath in the German Embassy here.

The great pogrom of November followed. In Zhonszyn today there are still 5,600 Jews living in no-man's land, captive in abandoned stables, forbidden entry into Poland, unable to return to Germany. There and elsewhere in the grim strip of soil between the nations there are 1,039 Jewish children.

Deportee Jews from Germany now living in Poland number 15,000. They are entirely dependent on outside charity. The Polish-Jewish Refugee Committee, with its treasury down to $400, has been compelled to reduce its per capita donation of food to these refugees from $1.25 to 65c a month. The deportees have introduced one fast day a week to feed "more plentifully" the other six days.

The Gestapo has ordered 4,000 more Polish Jews to leave the Reich within the fortnight, and several thousand are reported to have been taken to the frontier at Hindenburg and shoved into no-man's land. Jewish relief organizations have not been able to locate them. The Warsaw committee expects that another 17,000 will be expelled into no-man's land this month.

Hungarian authorities have ordered 3,000 Jews in Carpathia to leave immediately. Polish authorities have countered by ordering the expulsion of 1200 Czechoslovakian Jews who fled into Poland when their country fell into the hands of Germany. A great number of these refugees in Cracow and Katowitz have sworn to commit suicide in a body rather than return to the Nazis.

In Burgau, Bulgaria, 600 refugees from Germany, Szechoslovakia and Italy are starving as they wait for a boat to leave. In Constanza several hundred refugees have camped for months in the same hope. Without money and without visas, they hope in vain.

Shanghai is the only spot on earth where one can enter without a visa. The Jewish refugee population there now numbers 10,000, according to Sir Victor Sassoon, wealthiest Jew in the East, largest real estate owner in Shanghai, and benefactor of his race. Five thousand came there since the great pogrom. Sir Victor predicts there will be 30,000 before the end of the year and "newcomers will have to sleep in the streets." Six cents a day is the food allowance given them today.

Wherever the political influence of Pharaoh reaches, the blight widens. Italy has warned its 3,500 foreign Jews to leave this month. German Jewish refugees are being deported back to Germany. A new Italian law forbids Jewish professional men to practice except among Jews. It affects 1,200 heads of families.

In Hungary the Minister of Commerce has cancelled 80 per cent of the licenses of Jewish tradesmen and notified them to close their shops by July 1. Jewish lawyers must quit practice by October 31. Seventy-five per cent of Hungarian Jews have been disfranchised.

Pogroms on the grand scale have swept Slovakia since she surrendered to Hitler. The Hlinka Guards have arrested and beaten 7,000 Jews. Thirty thousand have been deprived of their nationality. Most of the synagogues have been burnt or plundered. Jews dare not appear on the streets. Dr. Josef Tso, Slovak Prime Minister, publicly demands complete elimination of the Jews from public life and business.

In Bohemia and Moravia 117,000 Jews have been disfranchised and the full rigor of the Nuremberg laws is descending upon the enslaved nation. The Memel Jews have been deprived of all their property and "may retain only a silver watch, one knife, fork and spoon and their artificial teeth." The Danzig Jewish community has liquidated itself and sent its holy scrolls to America.

Bulgaria has ordered all foreign Jews to leave. Japanese authorities announce no more Jewish refugees will be admitted to Manchukuo. In South America Jewish immigration has been suspended by Chile for one year, by Bolivia for six months, by Colombia indefinitely.

Since Hitler came to power, 350,000 refugee Jews have scattered throughout the earth. This is a low figure considering the six years of violent effort by the Nazis within and by the rescue agencies without Germany.

Rescue agencies have feared that if they offered to finance Jewish emigration entirely from outside, they would encourage the Nazis to take the meagre fraction of wealth still remaining to the Jews. The agencies are about to learn that the Nazis intend to take it all anyway.

Before Hitler, there were 550,000 "full" Jews in Germany proper, 225,000 in Austria and 200,000 in Czechoslovakia, a total of around 1,000,000 in the great Reich. From Germany 200,000 have escaped; from Austria, 103,000; from Czechoslovakia a bare 20,000; from Danzig, 5,000 out of the 10,000 there in 1937. Another 25,000 to 30,000 have left Poland, Hungary, Rumania, Bulgaria and Italy.

SUMMER TIME IS

PICNIC TIME

Maybe it's the gypsies in us that sets us longing for the open road at this time of year. And when that wanderlust hits, one might as well yield to it and set off toward the horizon. But it's a good idea to pack up a lunch before you start!

Even those whose appetites are a bit capricious when they seat themselves at a table indoors can become keenly interested in that lunch basket as it is unpacked on some grassy meadow. There's something about food eaten outdoors which makes a difference, it seems.

The first thought in food when picnics are mentioned is usually sandwiches. Slices of bread with delicious fillings might have been invented especially to be packed in picnic hampers. They are easy to prepare, and slices of the roast from the day before, or sliced ham or meat loaf, make good fillings. Sandwiches, with fruit and cookies and milk, coffee or fruit juice in a thermos bottle, make up a very satisfying picnic menu.

Another type of picnic lunch which is growing in favor contains a hot main dish, or one which can be reheated easily at the picnic spot. A casserole heavy enough to hold the heat can be well wrapped up and the food will be just right when it reaches the picnic spot.

Meat and vegetables cooked together are good for this picnic dish. Inez S. Willson, home economist, suggests this casserole dish which can be carried hot to the picnic, or reheated there.

Lamb en Casserole
2 pounds lamb shoulder
12 small onions
2 carrots
2 cups meat stock
4 potatoes
1 cup string beans
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
Have meat cut in one inch cubes.

Dredge with flour and brown in hot fat. Season with salt and pepper and place in casserole. Also place in the casserole whole small onions, sliced carrots, sliced potatoes and cooked green beans. Add 4 tablespoons flour to the fat in the pan where meat was browned. Add 2 cups meat stock and cook until thickened. Season with Worcestershire sauce. Pour this over the meat and vegetables and cook in a moderate oven until meat and vegetables are done, about forty minutes.

ON THE SCREENS

GRAND THEATRE

As the heroine of "Dark Victory," the Warner Bros. picture opening at the Grand Theatre today, Bette Davis enacts what she herself considers the finest part she has ever portrayed in the course of the brilliant career that has established her indubitably as the greatest actress on the screen today.

The role is so unlike any that Bette has ever done before and the picture itself is so far from the beaten track of banal, trite theatrical formula that it is likely to create more comment and discussion than any production which has come from Hollywood in many a day.

RITZ THEATRE

The thrilling drive of thoroughbreds through the stretch, the roar of crowds urging them on, the love story of a gambler and a thoroughbred lady of the Blue Grass country, and the quaint antics of two of the screen's foremost comedians combine to make "The Lady's From Kentucky" one of the best romantic dramas of the season. Co-starring George Raft and Ellen Drew, and featuring Hugh Herbert and ZaSu Pitts, the picture had its local premiere last night at the Ritz Theatre.

Hollywood has given us prize-fight pictures aplenty, but "Winner Take All," from the 20th Century-Fox studios, which came to the Ritz Theatre yesterday, with Tony Martin and Gloria Stuart heading a great cast, is a real knockout!

John Henry Johnson, Philadelphia, 158, lost to Mickey Finn, 162, Tullytown, in six rounds.
Mike DeStefano, Philadelphia, 151, defeated Tiger Reed, Newark, 156, in eight rounds.
Referee: Matt Adgie.
Judges: Joe Shank and Louis Tress.
Timer: Frank DeBecchio.
Announcer: Pat Fields.
Referee: Dr. M. Giordano.

The spotlight of the initial professional boxing show of the season was focused on the semi-windup between Mickey Finn and John Henry Johnson last night as a crowd of fight fans thrilled to six bouts of hard and furious fighting.
Mickey Finn, a husky farm-hand who is employer near Tullytown, captured the crowd from the start. He worked his rights and lefts to Johnson's mid-section in machine-gun manner when he had the Philadelphia boy on the ropes and occasionally would switch and come up with a pinwheel punch which landed on Johnson's jaw at every attempt.
Johnson, who previous to last night had won twenty-five out of twenty-six bouts was game until the end. He fought the last two sessions with one eye partly closed and at long range fighting bested the Tullytown husky. Finn was credited with three rounds during the fight, Johnson, one; and the other two were even.
Finn started in fine style. The bell was hardly twenty seconds old when he worked Johnson against the ropes and there started to beat a tattoo on the Tacony boy's stomach. Johnson attempted to get away but the farm-hand came up with a wind-mill punch and again Johnson was on the receiving end of many blows.
Johnson's best round was in the third. Twice in succession he hooked hard lefts into Finn's body and once he followed with a right to the jaw which rocked Finn. Finn was hurt in this round and by clinching saved himself from serious trouble.
The eight-round wind-up was slower than expected. Tiger Reed, Newark, was defeated by Mike DeStefano, Philadelphia, in a bout in which both boys were cautious and never let themselves open for a target and neither did any extra hard connecting.
The Philadelphia was awarded four of the eight sessions, two going to the colored boy and the remaining pair even. Reed came out in the sixth with a damaged eye and in this canto DeStefano had him wobbly after he had caught the Negro with three straight rights to the face.
Reed carried the first session which was spent by both boys feeling out one another with Reed occasionally landing a right to DeStefano's side. The second, fifth, sixth and seventh rounds were all to DeStefano. The third and fourth were even while in the final round, Reed rallied and carried it but DeStefano had too much of a lead to overcome.
The only knockout of the show came in the fourth bout of the night,

PARALYSIS STOPS LOU GEHRIG

Lou Gehrig, erstwhile iron horse of the New York Yankees, is shown (left) with Joe McCarthy, Yankee manager, in New York after the latter made public a report of Mayo Clinic physicians that Lou is suffering from a mild form of infantile paralysis and must play no more baseball. McCarthy said Gehrig will continue to serve as Yankee captain. Gehrig, suffering an inexplicable slump, removed himself from the line-up on May 2, after playing in 2130 consecutive games, more than any other man in the history of baseball. The report indicated the first sacker, now 36 years old, had suffered from the paralysis for at least several years.

William "Hokey" Leighton, Croydon, kissed the canvas in the fifth round of his bout with Mike Kelly, Riverside, and was counted out by Referee Matt Adgie.
Until the time of the knockout, Leighton was holding a slight lead over the Jersey boy. He won the first two sessions easily and was forcing the fight. Kelly cool and collected made the Croydonite wear himself down and took all he had.
It wasn't until the fourth that Kelly really went to work on the Croydon youth. After Leighton missed a wild swing, Kelly belted him twice with short rights which took the pep out of his foe. Leighton danced the round away but appeared hurt as he went to his corner. Twenty seconds of the fifth had elapsed when Kelly hooked his left to Leighton's jaw and while the Croydon boy swayed planted a fast right to the same place. Leighton fell on his face and lay there while the ten seconds were tolled.
Freddie Budazzi, former St. Ann's amateur boxer, slugged his way to a triumph over George Hunter, colored boy from Philadelphia, in the main preliminary event. Budazzi carried the fight from the start won three of the four sessions. Hunter only got in about five good blows during the melee.
In a very close bout which went four rounds, Sammy Sandora, Trenton, won over Freddie Nebo, Philadelphia. These boys coming in at 150 each, Sandora's body blows carried him to victory although he had plenty of trouble with the Philadelphia's style of fighting.
Sandora won two rounds, Nebo one, and the other was even. Referee Matt Adgie voted for a draw while the judges both gave the fight to Sandora. Sandora's early start gave him the victory.
Failure to time his punches cost Joe Tille, Trenton, the victory over Sam-

A long triple to left-center field by "Sags" Sagolla gave the Hall Aluminum Aircraft nine an 8-6 surprise victory over the Rohm and Haas team last night on the Maple Beach diamond. It was the second straight win for the airplane workers.
Sagolla's triple came in the first half of the seventh after Bill Dougherty had drew a pass. The runner scored on the hit when Joe Roe made a wild throw to the infield. It was Sagolla's third hit of the evening.
Ralph Strump although touched for eleven hits was the winning moundman, the airplane makers' hurler being very effective in the pinches. The Rohm and Haas team passed up several "breaks" to win the tilt. The defeat was charged to Willie Holland. Holland relieved Jefferies in the second and with the score tied, Rohm and Haas went into the lead in the third and after that it was all Hall Aluminum.

Strump could not get rid of "Jimmy" Massella at the plate. The chemical workers' shortstop connected for out of four during the night. He counted three of his team's runs. Reds Gallagher, for the winners, had a triple and single, driving in a pair of runs and scoring a tally. Leon Forman, batting as a pinch-hitter in the fifth, doubled to put the Hall team in the lead.

BRISTOL A. A. WINS AFTER GALLANT FIGHT

The Bristol A. A. Baseball Club staged a grand uphill fight after Riversdown went ahead in the eighth inning, scoring eight runs. The A. A. came back, tying the score at eight all, and won out in the ninth inning when Bragg drove in the winning runs to defeat the Jersey boys 10 to 9.
Jefferies pitched no-hit ball for eight innings but went wild, loading the bases, and Fish drove one into Leedom's yard for a home run, scoring four runs. McGinley's catch was the leading feature. The score is as follows:

TULLYTOWN DEFEATS CORNWELLS, 7 TO 2

Tullytown defeated Cornwells 7-2 at Cornwells Heights. Six errors contributed greatly to the Cornwells downfall, spoiling a beautifully pitched game of ball by Ed McDonald. Bachofer, who relieved Driver, struck out 8 in 4 1/3 innings.
